

High Interest

Dr. Gordon I. Groh, a local orthopaedic surgeon, recently served as faculty at an international sports medicine training lab for surgeons held in Miami, Fla.

Surgeons from the U.S., Canada and across Latin America received specialized training by Groh in arthroscopic shoulder surgery for sports-related injuries. Groh also served as faculty for courses in Boston and Tampa, focusing on fracture fixation and reverse shoulder replacement.

A board-certified specialist in shoulder, elbow and hand surgery at Blue Ridge Bone & Joint, Groh served as a full-time faculty member and director of shoulder and elbow surgery at the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver prior to joining Blue Ridge Bone & Joint 15 years ago.

Groh recently published research on the treatment of dislocated shoulders in the Journal of Shoulder and Elbow Surgery. He is also active with the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, and serves on key committees for developing continuing medical education for its members.
